

ECBA study group 2024: an update...

This year sees the third edition of the ECBA Study Group, with more participants than ever! The first content session took place on Leap Day, in Utrecht at Valori. It was a hybrid session, half of the participants participated via Zoom.

That evening, the key concepts were covered, as well as the underlying competencies and knowledge area BA Planning & Monitoring. After briefly covering the theory, with practical examples and questions from the group, the quiz followed.

Monday 11 March saw the second session, via Zoom. This and subsequent evenings are one hour each. Participants prepare by studying the theory. This way, the theory can be covered smoothly and there is room for questions from the group. And as always, the hour ends with the menti quiz. 25 March, the third session took place, with the topic: RLCM, and 8 April, 'Requirements Analysis' was in the spotlight. With a rhythm of 1 evening every fortnight, we will continue with the study group in the coming period.

If you want more info on the study group, drop an email at info@dutch.iiba.org

News from IIBA

Exciting news about AI! The KnowledgeHub on IIBA.org has just introduced a new beta feature that harnesses the power of artificial intelligence to provide IIBA members (note, that is, only IIBA members) with a more integrated search and user experience. Let's talk business analytics!

This year, IIBA NL will also get access to the new "chapter engagement platform". Among other things, this new platform will replace the current website and be integrated with the global website and underlying systems. Zoom as a meeting tool will also be integrated into the platform. More news will follow later.

#BABeyond24 - discount for IIBA (NL) members!

This year, we are more involved in #BABeyond24, especially on 30 May in Amsterdam, at the Art Center near Sloterdijk Station.

We are incredibly excited to see that some of our members will be actively contributing in Amsterdam. Good luck with your presentations: Arnoud Zeeuw van der Laan, Geertje Appel, Joris Schut, Bart Wijnen, Richard Hilekes, Marjolein 's-Gravemade. For more information, see <https://ba-beyond.eu/2024/programme#>

Until 28 April, you can use the Early Bird tickets, and on top of that, IIBA members get a €50 discount on the entrance fee.

Podcast The Daily Business Analyst - Part 2

We are pleased to announce a new episode of the Podcast "The Daily BA", in which we delve deeper into the exciting field of Information Management 2.0. In this episode, Wouter Nieuwenburg of PanCompany and Robert Vissers of Sogeti look back on recent IIBA activities over the past three months.

A highlight of this period was the inspiring session on Information Management 2.0. Wouter and Robert take listeners through the key points of this session and share their insights on how Information Management is evolving in the era of digital transformation and increasing data-driven decision-making.

Want to know more about how organisations can manage and leverage their information more effectively in this rapidly changing landscape? Then listen now to this engaging episode of "The Daily BA" on Spotify. The episode is also available on many other popular podcast platforms. Don't miss this opportunity to gain valuable insights on Information Management 2.0 and how it is shaping the future of businesses and organisations.

Agenda

Besides the study group, you can expect more interesting sessions from us in the coming months:

- 21 May: BA & migration - a real life story, location: Randstad Group in Amsterdam
- 30 May: BA & Beyond 2024, location: Amsterdam
- 4 June: Data Informed Decision Making by Shell, location: Hogeschool Rotterdam (R'dam)